It's Not Possible to To Judge Real Guru On The Basis of Worldly Measures

Real Guru is such an ideal man who spreads equally and fairly the light of knowledge in all his life. A knowledge which makes man understand the root cause of his living. That's a different matter the drop of rain fallen during Swati Nakshatra can have different effects. If this rain drop falls on open shells they change to pearls. If falls in mouth of snake it changes to poison. If falls on leaf of banana it changes to camphor. Similarly the words spoken by Real Guru can have different impact on different people. If Guru summons gathered assembly everyone will have different effects. True lovers will gather good knowledge from it alike opened mouth shells, false deservers can have negative effects alike snake. So Real Guru conveys only one thing those who come to him with open hearted with true desire of achieving something they succeed in achieving it. Those who come as fake with false desires they fail to realize any of summons of Guru. Guru is one, his message is common to all. But everyone perceives different meaning and realization. Be retainer not looser.

Try to retain maximum words spoken by Real Guru, deeply understand their meaning and practically bring them in use. This is a quality of true devotees. Be a winner don't loser. Try to hold good things in you and throw out all waste like a winnowing process. Don't be like sieve which retains waste and throw away usable. Also don't be like paste and mortar which keeps both good as well as waste. It's the most worse state which results suspicions and doubts only. Only be like opened mouth shells. Gathering maximum of knowledge and enlightening themselves. Work for enlightenment not for deterioration. Work for good not for worse. Try to make good use of life don't waste it. Try to understand and realize the preaching and teachings of Real Guru. Accept the good things discard away bad things. Follow this trick and feel the real bliss!

But surely the Real Guru neither remains bound in chains of ego and negligence nor remains confined to the limitations of self esteem. Thyself is free from all kinds of bonds. Satvaguna, Rajaguna, Tamaguna fail to entrap him. Ego and self esteem are not able to reach any learned Saint. Ego is the most thickest chain to entrap our soul. Self ego and esteem makes our soul restrained and confined. Ego constricts the thoughts, all movements get constricted. Egoistic man has a condition like slave. As in air deficiency you start feeling dizzy become inactive. Similarly ego takes away all freedom of man. He feels himself as slave. Body appears a prison. In which you are imprisoned. Egoless person can fly like a free bird anywhere anytime with full fun and pleasure. Egoless man is a gainer and Egoistic person is a loser. Egoless person always rules and Egoistic person always feels life and every movement as imprisonment. Egoless person feels life full of joy and Egoistic person is devoid of real joy and bliss.

A common man who wants to make his life purposeful, they get inclined towards religious practices. By reading sacred books and hearing Satsanga a wisdom is generated within which motivates man to get rid of cycle of death and rebirth. By keeping good habits and doing noble things devotees can easily break

Real Guru is neither bound in chains of self ego nor confined to the knowledge about his identity. Real Guru is fully free and released. None of the attributes of SatvaGuna, RajoGuna, TamoGuna can keep Real Guru bound in chains. He doesn't come under the influence of self ego and self esteem. Ego is a big stone in our lives. Self esteem is the last wall between man and soul. Ego and self esteem stop man to unite with Divine God. They are one of the major barriers for self realization and achieving real bliss!

Finally a devotee achieves sanity after breaking the wall of esteem confining the soul. Sanity means having control on senses when wisdom originates. That state makes man a saint. To achieve this state one has to conquer on ego.

When Man is released from the chains of ego that time he is addressed by various names like Santt etc. But after achieving sanity its very crucial to maintain it ever flowing. As long as man is under influence of an ego he will consist ' I ' factor. He will believe each work has been done by him only. When ego sheds man turns saint. Saint when starts living his life for noble causes in field of religion and spiritualism he well realizes only bliss is the sole part of his body. That state is of self realization. He will not say 'I exist' rather he will say 'existing.'

Self esteem makes such a boundary between soul and world that man fails to see the realistic facts of life. Though its not a visible like any brick wall but it keeps soul confined within it.

By following the path of religion one day this wall of self ego breaks and person unites with its real soul. He realizes his true identity. That time he forgets both 'I exist' and 'existing'. This moment of time individualism ends and sanity begins. Only the real identity starts emerging out. Divine lord breaks all walls and unites with man. Man achieves the wholesome meaning.

Such an ego less and wholesome man is popularly called the self realized Saint. Defining a Real Guru in any words will be incomplete. It will be sense less to define a Real Guru who truly exists in enlightened and wholesome state. For same reason all wise people have stated it many times in different ways that its not possible to judge a saint of present age by any of worldly measures.

Its not possible to judge any saint by measuring his Noble or evil deeds. On basis of noble or evil nature no one can understand the real Guru. Real Guru is always away from intelligence and idleness. No one can define real Guru by his style of living. Real Guru can't be recognized by his character, his conduct, his eating habits and his principles. Real Guru is neither a saint nor a thief. Among thieves also if real Guru stays he doesn't forget his real identity found within after self realization. Real Guru either stays among thieves or nobles he is different from all. Real Guru is always away from worldly measures. Worldly measures compare things as Good or Bad. Real Guru can't be categorized by this measuring scale Good or Bad. Real Guru is neither good nor bad. He is above all this. Real Guru of present time can neither be honored by calling the lord of non-violence nor His bravery and courage can be compared by calling him a Lord Kris-hana of who killed the devils. a destroyer of devils.

Real Guru is neither bound in chains of self ego nor confined to the knowledge about his identity. Real Guru is fully free and released. None of the attributes of Sat-vaGuna, RajoGuna, TamoGuna can keep Real Guru bound in chains. He doesn't come under the influence of self ego and self esteem. Ego is a big stone in our lives. Self esteem is the last wall between man and soul. Ego and self esteem stop man to unite with Divine God. They are one of the major barriers for self realization and achieving real bliss!
